To whom it may concern,

I have known Mr Leonard Jones for 6 years in the capacities of a fellow director for 3 years and as a consultant for 3 years.

In that time, I have always found him to be honest, committed, personable and professional. He is innovative, able to offer fresh incisive views and his strong financial background has always enabled him to bring extensive financial and commercial experience to different situations and contexts.

He is able to provide a good strategic outlook, managing change when necessary without losing sight of shorter term responsibilities.

The above together with good communication skills and reliability make him a valuable member of a board of directors and I would not hesitate to recommend him for such a role.

Yours faithfully,
